

MACHINE GUN UNIT CAMPING AT RANGE

Men Getting Some of the Real
"Hardships" of Army Life at Congress Heights.

Pepper the targets and clay banks with an almost continual stream of steel nosed bullets during the day time, and sleeping in small shelter tents, one and every two men, at night, the machine gun company of the District National guard is undergoing some of the "hardships" of camp life at the Congress Heights rifle range.

In the midst of a pouring rain, but cheerfully keeping step to life and drum, the company marched into camp Friday night after a ten-mile "hike" from Camp midway and put up their small homes.

Bad and sorrowful tales are told of that first night in camp: how the ground was soggy and wet; how the blanket rolls were damp, how so-and-so pitched his tent on a small "mountain" and many other calamities.

On Brow of Hill.

Situated on the brow of a steel hill, and looking over the small, level valley in which the ranges are placed, are the tents of the machine gun company. A kitchen has been built. Mess tents have been constructed also.

The range itself is in the valley below. There are targets at various distances from the firing line, practice being given the men at long and short distances.

During the first few days that the men stay at the rifle range they are put through stiff drills in the handling of their machine guns. Captain Earshaw, in command of the machine gun company, said that until the men become familiar with their rapid-fire guns, no real target practice will be given.

Fire at Clay Bank.

The men simply fire at a clay bank, and after they become proficient in the use of the weapons the "fancy stunts," such as firing at a row of targets and making a horizontal line of bullet holes across the faces of the canvas sheets, will be begun.

The men also practice with their automatic pistols at seventy-five yards. Three men are required to handle one of the machine guns. Two of the men "feed" the strips of cartridge into the gun while another aims and fires.

The gun themselves, which are rather heavy, as is a rule carried on the backs of pack mules.

Carried in Wagon.

Owing to the lack of these very necessary animals, however, the guns were carried on the present trip in the baggage wagon, which accompanied the organization, and which carried besides, rations for a five-day stay, and other necessities necessary for such a trip.

None of the men was unduly tired by the long hike from the Fort Myer camp, and no casualties other than a few blistered feet were reported to the commanding officer. Many of the men had to remain in their tents, however, during the first day, while their clothes, which had been thoroughly wet the night before, "hung" outside and were dried by the sun.

Game Warden Takes Brother Into Court

GRASS VALLEY, Cal., July 23.—That Game Warden Ray O'Connor plays no favorites in the discharge of his duties was proved, when he arrested his brother, Frank, for having, violated the game laws last January.

While admonishing a group of hunters against unlawful shooting one day, they asked the warden why he permitted his brother to shoot quail out of season. This led to the latter's arrest. Frank O'Connor was fined $25.

Rancher Rode Cyclone.

GILLETTE, Wyo., July 23.—A small twister visited the ranch of Fred Christensen here a few days ago. Mr. Christensen was making a few repairs on his shearing pen when he was picked up and carried fifty yards and thrown violently to the ground. He recovered consciousness a half hour later. Neighbors saw the cyclone but were not molested by it.

Peanut Army Wiped Out By Camp Kiddies

Young Warriors At Camp Good Will In United Assault
Sweep Away Host of "Goodies" Provided By Navy Yard Men.

After an internecine warfare of two days between the boys and the girls at Camp Good Will, a truce was declared Saturday afternoon, and the combatants combined forces. Then they declared hostilities against 300 bags of peanuts.

Commander Taylor blew his bugle of assembly, and at the signal of attack they advanced at a quick-step against the unprepared Goober ranks, and created havoc among them.

Though there were peanuts to the right of them and peanuts to the left of them, onward they strode, and well, and to such effect that all the king's horses and all the king's men could not have pulled them off the captured ramparts.

Present From Navy Yard.

The goobers were the present of the men at the Navy Yard. It was Navy Yard day at Camp Good Will, as is every Saturday of the summer. Eight or ten of the Navy Yard employees go out on Saturdays, and take with them munitions of war, to wit, ice cream, lemonade, peanuts, prizes, and cheery smiles. They take the camp by storm. Nobody is in it in the kiddies estimation, except the Navy Yard men.

Friday night, however, the little women of the camp proved that the female of the species is braver than the male. A terrific storm broke over the camp, but the little girls did not mind it a bit. The boys, on the contrary, seemed to be a bit excited. Some of them played in their tent, others played games to keep from hearing that "horri noise" outside.

One brave young urchin started from his tent to go to the assembly tent. Just after he had gotten out a fearful lightning flash and thunder clap came. He did not wait to see if the world had been pulverized, but fell on his face straightaway.

The tents gave good service during the storm, and next morning at breakfast the faces of both mothers and children were as bright and happy as if the night had been filled with moonbeams and balmy zephyrs.

Mothers to Give Play.

The mothers at the camp are to give a play. It is to be no mere reproduction of some old performance. It has been written by one of the mothers seated.

Pugilist Killed In Fulfilling a Boast

Thought Muscles Would Repel
Knife, But Friend's Jab Proves Fatal.

NEW YORK, July 23.—John Anderson, twenty-nine, a pugilist, of Brooklyn, bragged to Thomas Walsh, twenty-five, a powerfully built truck driver, at the latter's home, that the muscles in his chest, neck and arms were so strong that a man could jab them with a knife and he couldn't feel it.

Walsh said he accepted Anderson's invitation to "try it," and the knife blade entered his chest over the heart, causing a wound from which the pugilist died a few minutes later. Walsh is under arrest on a charge of homicide.

Anderson and Walsh had been intimate friends for three or four years. The pugilist went to the truck driver's home and both drank beer.

When Anderson started to boast of the resistance of his muscles he said, according to Walsh:

"I'm so strong you could cut my four fingers off and I wouldn't notice it."

Then came the request for Walsh to try the experiment of stabbing him in the chest. Anderson dropped to the floor at the first jab. Walsh's utter astonishment. Anderson lived six hours.

pecially for the camp show, and will be played under her direction.

When cries of "author!" come at the premiere, Mrs. Agnes Banagan will step forward and make her bows. The play is on the order of the miracle plays of the middle ages, and in fact is called "The Second Pilgrim's Progress."

Among the characters represented are Mrs. Disappointed, Mrs. Good Housekeeper, Mrs. Ill Health, Mrs. Fresh Air, Mrs. Goodmother, Mrs. Bride, Mrs. Nurse, and Mrs. Camp Good Will.

It is shown in play how Mrs. Camp Good Will works a great change in the character of Mrs. Disappointed and Mrs. Ill Health, assisted by the other members of the cast.

The party at the camp Saturday numbered 139. They all looked bright and happy, the boys and girls sun-burned and hardened.

Navy Yard Committee.

The committee from the Navy Yard at Camp Good Will was composed of I. R. Schwinger, chairman; C. W. Nussner, H. H. Smith, G. A. Fischer, H. Moya, B. H. Fearer, A. C. Grant and F. W. Vivian. They brought with them condiments and many prizes for the various races. Prizes were recently purchased for five separate Saturday contests, by the Navy Yard people.

BALL GAME TO AID GUARD RELIEF FUND

Board of Trade and National Press Club Diamond Experts to Meet Wednesday.

The members of the Washington Board of Trade and the National Press Club are to play baseball next Wednesday afternoon for the benefit of the Citizens' Welfare Association of the National Guard and Volunteers of the District.

The game is to be played at 3:30 o'clock at the American League Park. The arrangements are being made by J. A. Landvoigt and E. J. Murphy. It had at first been intended to play a team from the Chamber of Commerce against the Board of Trade men, but the Press Club team got in its challenge first.

It is expected that the game will attract considerable patronage, as both teams claim to be the best of baseball players who play an average of half a game a season in the District of Columbia.

The Board of Trade men declare they will clean up the Press Club team, and the newspaper men are determined that the business men shall suffer defeat.

Mrs. Alice I. Stuart, in charge of the headquarters of the Citizens' Welfare Association, and her corps of investigators have been busy during the past two weeks making investigations of the applications for relief that have come to them.

The Federal Taxicab Company has placed a number of automobiles at the service of the association. With these machines the investigators have managed to accomplish considerably more during the past two days than before that time.

Mrs. Stuart states that the applications for relief are being attended to as rapidly as they are received. The association's funds are low and an appeal is made for more money.

More than 100 appeals have been made to the association, and investigations so far show that the cases are all deserving, some of them being families that have been left absolutely destitute.

Cable Hits Chauffeur On Chin; Car Goes On

NEW YORK, July 23.—A sagging steel cable, drooping across Queens boulevard, in Winfield, caught Roland Cook, a chauffeur, under the chin and threw him from the automobile he was driving.

The car, with three occupants, sped unguided for 150 yards, then pitched over into a ditch.

Cook was taken to St. John's Hospital in a serious condition. Emerson Talbert, a New York broker, living at Far Rockaway, owner of the automobile, was riding in the rear seat with his nine-year-old son and Mrs. Josephine Weiss. None was gravely hurt.

Pretty Japanese Girl Plans to Study for Bar

LOS ANGELES, July 23.—So impressed was Yona Okita, pretty Los Angeles high school graduate, with the conduct of a woman lawyer in a magistrate's court that she announced at the close of the proceedings that she would take up the study of law.

Miss Akita appeared in Justice Hinshaw's court as complaining witness against Fernin Fernum, accused of stealing her purse. The prosecution was conducted by Deputy District Attorney Miss Hiben, who questioned the little Japanese witness. The defendant was bound over to the superior court for trial.

MAP IS USED TO WIN RECRUITS FOR MILITIA

Advantages of Trip to Bisbee,
Ariz., Shown at Mustering Stations.

A map of the railroad route to Bisbee, Ariz., showing all the places the District militiamen will pass through has been hung on the wall at the Pennsylvania avenue recruiting station by Lieut. Julian Oliff. Prospective recruits now have an opportunity to see where the Third Infantry and other District units are going.

This is in line with the instructions of General Harvey to set forth the advantages of the trip to the young men of the city.

General Harvey declared that the Western country is the coming section of the United States, and there are opportunities there for young men who will enlist.

The recruits in the national guard, through their national guard service on the border, will have an opportunity to look over the chances for employment there, and when they are mustered out of the service they can remain if they desire.

Today was a busy one at all recruiting establishments, as it is the desire of the officers to be able to close the office next week with a full complement of men in the various organizations at Radio.

Lieutenant Oliff, who is in charge of recruiting in the city, stated today that the recruiting continues as it has today the work will soon be accomplished.

PLAN ENLARGEMENT OF POWHATAN HOTEL

Ten Story Addition On East Side Contracted For.

The Powhatan Hotel, at Eighteenth street and Pennsylvania avenue, is to be enlarged by a ten-story addition adjoining the present structure on the east. The present building is to have two additional stories, the whole making a large ten-story modern hotel. The work is to be done by the George J. Fuller Company under plans of Milburn, Helster & Co., architects. E. C. Owens is manager of the hotel.

One hundred additional rooms will be added to the hotel by these improvements. They will give it a frontage of 100½ feet on H street, 129½ feet on Eighteenth street, and 70 feet on Pennsylvania avenue. The present cafe is to be added to the lobby, the dining room will be enlarged, and a mezzanine balcony added.

It is planned to have practically every room in the new hotel with bath and nearly all rooms will be outside rooms. A new entrance on Eighteenth street is designed. The material will be of stone and pressed brick.
